Directors' Duty of Care in Australia - A Reform Model?

Dr Julie Cassidy

Associate Professor, Deakin Law School

Wednesday, 20 June 2007, 1:00 – 2:00 pm
Room 425, 4/F KK Leung Building, HKU

Recent suggestions of reforming of the directors' duty of care in Hong Kong naturally leads to an examination of options utilised in other Nations. The Seminar looks at the directors' duty of care in Australia, analysing whether the approach taken in that Nation provides any useful guidance in regard to reform options in Hong Kong.

Dr Julie Cassidy obtained her PhD at the Bond University and an LLB (Hons) at the University of Adelaide. She is also a Barrister and Solicitor of Supreme Court of Victoria, Barrister of Supreme Court of Queensland, Barrister of High Court of Australia. Dr Cassidy is teaching Business Organisations and Taxation. Her Research interests include Directors Duties, Anti-tax Avoidance and Aboriginal Rights.

Please email Flora Leung at fkleung@hku.hk if you would like to attend the Seminar.
