East Asian International Economic Law & Policy Programme Seminar

The European Union and the Global Financial Crisis: Responses and Global Role

Professor Bernhard Schloh

University of Hamburg School of Law

Wednesday, 4 November 2009

1:00 - 2:00 pm

Room 303, 3/F KK Leung Building, HKU

The present financial crisis is global: America, Europe, Asia. Does the European Economic and Monetary Union (EEMU) have a common / single / joint response? What are the European Union and the EEMU? - constitution, competencies, action? What global answers are possible for this crisis?

Professor Bernhard Schloh studied law at the University of Hamburg and New York University. He was lawyer with the Council of Ministers of the European Communities in Brussels from 1964 to 1994 and an Adjunct Professor at the Free University of Brussels. His areas of work and teaching included European Communities: Internal market and external relations; agricultural policy; energy policy and international economic organisations.
